EVERY MAN LAW UNTO HIMSELF IN MEXICO

James Chipman and wife have just returned from a trip to Tampico, Mexico, where they went in January. Mr. Chipman visited the properties in which he is interested. In speaking of conditions, Mr. Chipman said to a desert News reporter Tuesday, "One can travel on the railroad lines south of the border, on the east side of the country, anyhow, without any danger at all. There are no indications of war down there, except the sight of soldiers. Carranza's forces are doing their best to restore and maintain order everywhere, and I am inclined to believe that he will be eventually successful, as gradually the independent commands and bandit bands are surrendering to his officers. One bunch of 500 recently gave themselves up. Of course back in the mountains, away from the railroad, there is some danger of trouble, as might be expected.

"Railroad fares are so cheap on Mexican railroads that everybody is riding for the fun of the thing. Why for the 100 miles between Nuevo Laredo, and Tampico, the fare was but $2.50 American money, and for first class, and second class is about half that amount. After I had checked our trunk at Nuevo Laredo, we had to fight our way into the car, as hordes of Mexicans were hanging onto the platform steps, and for 100 miles I had to stand up. Two Carranza officers in the car were good enough to get up and let Mrs. Chipman have their seats. We had to have our luggage inspected before boarding, and I found Mrs. Chipman holding onto a lot of Carranza currency which she was afraid the inspectors were going to take away from her. But they only wanted to count it, and that difficulty was straightened out, as soon as I explained to her the situation. Carranza money is comparatively worthless, but it is taken, and got rid of as soon as possible. Merchants take it to the oil companies for exchange into American currency, of course at a discount, and the oil men pay off their Mexican help in this depreciated currency. A peon down there is earning 10 to 20 cents a day.

"The amount of petroleum oil in the oil districts is incalculable; there is so much that it can not be properly taken care of, and only the companies who have their own vessels are able to freight it away. A battalion of Carranza soldiers went by our ranch not long ago, in pursuit of a gang of robbers, and the last rank held back of the rest. The first thing we knew they were commandeering our horses and mules. My men stood them off, and sent a boy on horseback to notify their commanding officer. The whole country is under military rule, with governors of states exercising executive, legislative and judicial functions. Every man seems to be a law unto himself."

THE CHRONIC LOAFER'S REPENTANCE

By J. C.

We turn away the chronic tramp And dub him as a worthless scamp. But what about the chronic loafer Who makes his wife and children suffer;

Who, just as soon as breakfast's done, Hurries from home upon the run To toot his horn and blow his bellows Among the other loafing fellows Who, like the tramps expect a living At the expense of other's giving.

The loafer lounges on the street With freezing ears and perished feet. Blocking the way as people go To do their business to and fro. Discussing silly, trifling things That little joy or comfort brings; Leaving his wife to chop the wood And pack the coal to cook his food. Expecting her to have his dinner On time, the senseless, heartless sinner.

Perplexed, she meets him at the gate. Her eyes aflame with pent up hate. With this retort—"You worthless elf, What do you think now of yourself: Leaving your little ones and I From day to day to slave or die With neither wood nor coal to burn; With bread to bake and cream to churn."

"Oh, well; my darling one," says he, "I was on business, as you see. Or else, of course, I would have come To help you with the things at home."

"Oh, yea," says she, "that's your old song When your assailed for doing wrong; But if you serve me so again—I'm speaking now to make things plain—

I'll use this poker on your back Until I make it blue and black. And throw your duds outside the door Resolved they ne'er shall enter more. Or, what perhaps, is something worse, I'll enter suit for a divorce."

"Well now," says he, "I must confess For long I've caused you much distress

But, if you will forgive me now With you I'll make this solemn vow That I will act a husband's part Henceforth, with all my mind and heart"

So thus we end our little story That crowns the loafer's wife with glory.

SEINING FOR CATFISH MAY BE STOPPED

Commissioner Chambers in Accord With Complaint of Sportsmen.

As a result of the complaints of hundreds of cat-fishermen, seining for this species of fish in Utah lake and other state waters may be stopped ere long if such a possibility is within the power of Fred W. Chambers, state fish and game commissioner.

Commissioner Chambers is heartily in accord with the fishermen who argue that their favorite fish should not be caught in such large quantities as the seiners take with their nets.

Chambers announced this week that he is of the opinion that under the law he has the right to stop any kind of fishing if it is for the protection and propagation of any kind of fish

Get Rid of My Corns With Magic "Gels-It"

Simplest Corn Cure in the World—No Pain, No Fuss. New, Sure Way.

When corns make you almost "die" with your boots on, when you've soaked them and picked them and sliced them, when corn-swelling salves, and tapes, bandages, and plasters that make corns pop-eyed have only made your corns grow faster. Just hold your heart a moment and figure this: Put two drops of "Gels-It" on the corn. It dries at once. You can put your shoe and stocking on right over it. The corn is doomed. It makes the corn come off clear and clean. It's the new, easy way. Nothing to stick or press on the corn. You can wear smaller shoes. You'll be a joy-walker. No pain, no trouble. Accept no substitutes. "Gels-It" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

and stated that he will look into the matter of seining for catfish at once and see if it could not be stopped.

"I think that it would be a good thing to put a stop to the seining for these fish, at least until they become more plentiful," said the commissioner.

Chambers said further that he would not be in favor of declaring catfish a game fish as in that case it would mean that they could not be sold. He said that if the catching of this fish were forbidden by seine it would mean that many a man could catch enough in a day with hook and line to pay him for his time as the price would be raised at least 2 cents a pound over what it is at the present time, and there would still be a good market for such fish.

Chambers called attention to the fact that two years ago he issued an order prohibiting seining in the Jordan river from Twelfth South to Utah lake, and that the order had been obeyed, and that he knew of no reason why a similar order could not be issued regarding seining for catfish.

It is pointed out that if an order forbidding seining for this fish is issued it will be but little trouble for the seiners to return the fish to the waters of the lake the same as is done at the present time with trout and bass.

Under the law every seiner must have a deputy game warden present when the seine is drawn. This warden could easily see to it that all cat-

WHY YOU ARE NERVOUS

The nervous system is the alarm system of the human body.

In perfect health we hardly realize that we have a network of nerves, but when health is ebbing, when strength is declining, the same nervous system gives the alarm in headaches, tiredness, dreamful sleep, irritability and unless corrected, leads straight to a breakdown.

To correct nervousness, Scott's Emulsion is exactly what you should take; its rich nutrient gets into the blood and rich blood feeds the tiny nerve-cells while the whole system responds to its refreshing tonic force. It is free from alcohol.
